Management of the dysplastic hip consists of closed reduction followed by careful observation or further treatment. This treatment is most often performed early in life before skeletal maturity has been reached. When this treatment is successful, approximately 80% of children will no longer have a limp or walking difficulty. In this study, we describe our experience with 45 hips that have been treated in this way. Hip reductions were performed in 37 children with developmental dysplasia of the hip between the ages of 6 weeks and 2.9 years. Follow-up data were available for 28 hips at a mean age of 6.3 years. These 28 hips were then subdivided by age at the time of the reduction. There were 12 successes in 15 hips in children less than 3 months old, and 20 successes in 13 hips in children 3 to 6 months old. In children with developmental dysplasia of the hip, closed reduction of the hip can be performed safely in the newborn. In children with developmental dysplasia of the hip between 3 and 6 months of age, satisfactory results can also be obtained. These data support the earlier intervention in developmental dysplasia of the hip by closed reduction in this age group. The specified color value is less than 0.0 (0) or greater than 1.0 (1).
