I'd say you have a good grounding on the theme industry. I know what you're talking about, and I've enjoyed the blog. This was the first one I've ever written a review for, so it means a lot to me. :) Thanks for the feedback! Thank you. The blog was created to write a review about a theme I'm working on, the English one is www.laren.io, the German one is www.gehirn.ch. I was just working on a third one, which is based on the German one. I hope that the third one will be released soon! :) Okay, I'm pleased to see that this theme has received an update. Very nicely done, and I'm sure it will be popular with your clientele. There is one glitch that I ran into, and I just came across it by accident after previewing the theme. It's a bug that I haven't been able to work out yet. I can go back into the theme admin console and see that the image has been replaced correctly (with the ones you show here), but when I log out, switch user, and log back in, the image is still the default, as if the image were never changed. Could you email me the image you're using? I'd like to check to see if it's got the right dimensions and is maybe not being rotated properly (maybe it's not inheriting the path on rotation). @Brandon You've probably fixed it already, but if not, I can give you a copy of the image I'm using. It's just the one for the gallery:
