Nitrofurans (Nitrofurans In Cancer Chemotherapy, Part 1: Mechanism of Antitumour Activity) are direct-acting antitumour agents. Since the discovery of 5-nitro-7,8-diazafluorene, these compounds have gained increasing recognition since their development of a broad spectrum of activity. The clinical effectiveness of nitrofurans was established in the 1980s and since then, these compounds have undergone rapid further development. The 5-nitro-7,8-diazafluorene congeners are pharmacologically distinct from the nitrofurans in that they are electrophilic in nature and nitrate-dependent in their antitumour actions, whereas the nitrofurans are generally regarded as pharmacologically relatively inert. This paper reviews the chemistry of nitrofurans and their derivatives in terms of mechanisms of action.

MINSK, 22 June (BelTA) – Belarus is the only country in the world which not only has anti-Soviet organizations but also created such an organization. The fact of Soviet suppression is primarily based on falsification and as such is directly criticized in the international community, says head of the Commission of Culture and Arts Natalya Gorbenko in the keynote address at the World Festival of Independent Cinema (Kino Icarus) held in Minsk from 22 to 25 June. According to the official website of the Kino Icarus festival, the organizers of the event wished
