explain it for you... This is the output of the PowerGUI.ps1 when i run it on your file: This is for the "Session json:" field. I don't know who you're trying to send the commands to, but most likely you're looking for the server's "Server SSH Key" The server's "User SSHDomain" and its "SSHUserName" (same thing) The username and password of the server. After all this you want to see the results in your Powershell. There are many free services on the internet where you can download the server's key, which is the one you need for that, and save it on your computer.
I'm not going to tell you which is the best. You'll just need to Google for it. There are several methods to extract the results like you need to see them. I'll give you a method I use, but depending on what you're doing I'm sure there's other methods. I download all the files from the server using a Powershell command like this one: Invoke-Command -ComputerName $Server -ScriptBlock {Import-Module Net.WebClient} Import-Module Net.WebClient Import-Clixml C:\Path_In_Windows\Temp\Server_Key Then i open each file to get the results for your case. Let's say you have all the files downloaded. Now you can export

If you need apk file For that you need to use links in below. you can get this file easily Download the esetups. Unzip it and see the files. Then copy all those files into your WOW folder in C:/Program Files/World of Warcraft/Patch_1.2.3_Wotlk/Esets/ Do not use auto launch software like norton,etc to do so!! They will delete all existing files and autload the old ones!!! You need to download esetups. Unzip all of it with the folders and the key files. Once you have all of that, open Warcraft and it should auto load into the game. You also need to set WoW to autolaunch when you login and not everytime you log in. If you need a guide to install the program correctly you can download this patch here. There are two other ways to do the same thing. One is the link I posted above. The other is a free program called AUTOLOAD which is made by an EA rep that made the game. It is included with the retail game but that is it. The link I posted is the guide. I posted in the download link to both of those. To install the game and use it all you need is :- A PC running WoW. Windows 2000, XP, Vista, 7, 8 or 8.1. Installation CD or key. A space in the cd drive for the cd drive to be able to read the disk. The CD must boot from the CD. A working internet connection. Download esetups.zip Extract and install it. Then extract wiztutorial.zip and install the file pakewindriver.exe. Once done re-run the esetup installer. Select repair and be sure the correct entry is selected. Once the scan is complete the program will close but don't worry it is not at all finished. Hit the install button and its done. Restart Warcraft and play the game. To set the program to auto start and no longer every time you log in just follow the guide there. ^Packarcade^ No longer supporting the game.
